Elk Kill in Park Is Now Completed

Last Wednesday saw the finish of the elk kill in the National Park, a total of 311 of these animals being slaughtered in the 13 days of shooting which gives an average of 27 per day. Warden Ray Sharp and Sam Purcell were responsible for 180 head while Warden Bud Cotton got 131.

The average weight of the carcasses ran to 340 lbs., although some of the larger beasts dressed around 450 lbs. In all, some five carloads of meat has been shipped to the different reserves in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta under direction of the Department of Indian Affairs.

The elk in the 340 square miles of territory in the main park were wild and difficult to locate, and on some days the killers' trucks travelled over 90 miles across the prairie and sand ridges to contact the herd to make a kill. Large pickup trucks followed these and took the partially dressed carcasses to the park abattoir where they were finished up for shipment by a staff of butchers.

Highways Jump Farm Valuations

Just what improved highways mean to a farm has been strikingly demonstrated by a survey made recently in the United States, according to officials of the Alberta Motor Association.

This study indicated that farmers are more and more coming to see that improved highways not only bring them direct and immediate benefits as operators of a business but that by intangibly increasing farm property values, roads provide greater and more lasting benefits.

Effect of the U.S. survey was that farmers on gravel roads figured their property worth 20 per cent more than those whose farms were on dirt roads. Those on hard-surfaced roads claimed their property was worth 44 per cent more than land on dirt roads. Of course, in regard to hard-surfaced roads, nearness to markets and electrification also are factors in fixing valuations for purposes of comparison.

Results of the U.S. survey bear out the contention of A.M.A. officials that the farmer stands to benefit largely through the building of hard-surfaced roads. Not only does the farmer's property increase in value but also he is enabled to take advantage of opportunity of securing a valuable cash market, which is created by the tourist trade.

Only way in Alberta to "cash in" on the full on this trade is to build hard-surfaced roads, giving bigger business and larger profits to the farmers.

Big Sister

Accident Sunday on East Highway

What might have been a fatality, but happily resulted only in shock and bruises, occurred on the east highway some 11 miles from town on Sunday evening last.

From information to hand, it seems that Mr. Ken Hutchison, who was driving a Ford coupe, was driving to Chauvin, accompanied by Miss Irene Fahner and her brother Maurice.

Reaching a spot near the Roy farm this driver lost control of the car owing to the icy condition of the road, with the result that the vehicle was overturned into the ditch, and the occupants were pinned inside.

They were taken into Edgerton by a passing driver, and after examination by the doctor there, they were brought to Wainwright by Mr. Bob Leggett and Mr. Hutchison became a patient at the hospital, his injuries consisting of a bad cut on the head in addition to several cuts and shocks. His two passengers were also badly bruised and shaken but, following a couple of days' rest they are both back at their duties.

It would seem that only the fact that the car turned over in a big patch of brush saved the occupants from possibly instant death.

While Mr. J. Kerr, a traveller for Ashdown's Ltd., was driving from Chauvin to Wainwright on Friday last, his car went out of control on the icy road, with the result that the vehicle was overturned. Although the car did several somersaults luckily Mr. Kerr was uninjured, and he was able to drive the car into town.

NEARLY 500 HOSPITAL DAYS DURING MONTH OF OCTOBER

All members of the Wainwright municipal hospital board were present at the regular meeting held on Saturday last, the minutes of the previous meeting being adopted on a motion by Trustee Collette.

Moved by Trustee Collette—That all non-payee patients who use the hospital from this date be allowed a ten per cent (10%) discount on their account if paid within thirty days of the date of their being discharged from the hospital.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gardiner—That the membership fee of $15.00 be paid to the Municipal Hospital Association.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gardiner—That Trustees Collette and Gould be delegates to the convention at Calgary on November 28-29, and that cheques for $35.00 each be issued to cover their expenses.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gould—That the secretary notify the Town of Wainwright that the matter of indigent agreements is tabled until our next meeting.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gould—That the action of the House Committee in refusing Dr. Maynes the use of the hospital for operation on Mrs. Hopalik be approved, and that the letter to the Town Council in this connection be included in the minutes and published in the Wainwright Star.—The motion carried with Trustee Gardiner voting "nay".

The letter follows:—
November 5th, 1938
Mr. N. S. Kenny,
Secretary-Treasurer,
Town of Wainwright.
Dear Sir: Your letter of Nov. 5th, 1938, regarding Dr. Gordon Maynes being allowed to enter hospital to perform an operation on Mrs. Hopalik was placed before the House Committee and I am instructed to inform you that they will not consent to Dr. Maynes entering the Wainwright hospital to attend any patient whatever. The committee wish to point out, however, that personal feeling does not enter into their decision, but through the action of Dr. Maynes in presenting indigent accounts with Battle River M.D. be approved.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gardiner—That the milk contract be renewed with Mr. T. Alexander for the next six months at six cents (6c) per quart for milk and thirty cents (30c) per quart for cream.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Bleasdale—That the accounts totalling $1542.91 be accepted and cheques issued to cover same.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gardiner—That the members be paid for committee work.—Carried.

Moved by Trustee Gardiner—That Mr. K. McKenney's action re settlement of indigent accounts with Battle River M.D. be approved.—Carried.

The matron presented her report for the month of October, which read as follows:
Patients in hospital, Oct. 1st—107

Eva Le Gallienne, Founder and Director of the Civic Repertory Theatre, New York, and an actress of rare distinction, sympathy and insight who by her own high accomplishment and TAKE IN CUT—EVA Le Gallienne—broke all Wainwright records for attendance and in the writer's opinion, for a well-produced, diversified and snappy entertainment. Following the brief but forceful remarks from Mayor Middlemass, President Gordon Graham and Provincial Chaplain Graham, the items followed one another in excellent time and order. The Legion Chorus, under direction of C. Wear and with Mrs. G. Glass at the piano, sang some of the old choruses and, by example, got the audience singing too. A very pretty number by Eileen Graham and Roberta Snyder brought well-deserved applause. Their dancing was excellent and showed the results of many hours of training and practice. Jimmy Grant's "Egg Song" was well done, as were all his numbers, but he did not reach his "high light" until later in the evening. The sketch, "Soldiers Three", written specially for the show by C. Seed Show at Royal Winter Fair

At the 1938 Royal Winter Fair, which is being held at Toronto this week, a larger and more elaborate seed show promises to be not only an interesting but an exciting feature to the increased number of the entries over previous years and the consequent keener competition. Those responsible for this Seed Show appreciate that good seed is not only the basis but the necessity of good agriculture in all its branches.

Already there is considerable speculation among some of the exhibitors as to who will be this year's Canadian wheat champion. It is possible that a new winner may take the crown. With regard to close competition in the championships, the seed taking the first places and championships in the alfalfa, late oats, barley, and potato classes will have to be very good, and judging from the entries a real struggle for first place winners will take place.

Former Town Girl Married at Vancouver

On Tuesday, November 8th, in Central Presbyterian church vestry, with Rev. W. A. Cameron officiating, the wedding rites were solemnized between Jean Tanya, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Dunsmore, of 1248 Burrard Street, Vancouver, and Thomas Milliken, third son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Milliken, of 1561 Pembroke Street, Victoria.

Miss Kay Parker, of Vancouver, acted as bridesmaid while Mr. Robert Milliken, brother of the groom, was best man.

The bride was dressed in royal blue chiffon velvet with contrasting hat of royal blue and wine velvet and wine-toned accessories. She wore a corsage of American beauty roses.

The bridesmaid wore olive green alpaca with hat and accessories to match. Her corsage was tallman roses.

The bride's mother was dressed in navy blue sheer with matching accessories and red carnations.

After the marriage a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Crowe, where a buffet luncheon was served, the bride and groom being recipients of congratulations and good wishes from a host of friends.

Mr. W. H. Parker proposed the toast to the bride which was fittingly responded to by the groom.

Among the many beautiful gifts received was a handsome metal clock bearing on a silver plate the inscription "To Jean and Thomas Milliken from officers and men of the Princess Marguerite". The groom is an employee of "The Marguerite".

Wainwright Celebrates the Twentieth Anniversary of Armistice Day, Friday Last

(By "An Old Swaddy")

The celebration of Armistice Day in Wainwright on Friday last followed the lines established as customary by nearly twenty years of usage. Following the two minutes silence, the laying of wreaths and "Last Post", the parade of ex-soldiers, R.C.M.P., and 19th Alberta Dragons marched to the theatre.

On the flag-draped stage of the theatre, Dr. K. S. Stevens (himself an old regimental padre) took charge of the service and was supported by Rev. T. E. Armstrong. He introduced Rev. Canon W. T. H. Cripps, Provincial Chaplain of the Canadian Legion, who in his address to the large audience, left no doubt as to the heartbreak and sacrifice inseparable from war.

The Legion Show in the evening broke all Wainwright records for attendance and in the writer's opinion, for a well-produced, diversified and snappy entertainment. Both teams and their coach cannot comment too highly on the manner and spirit in which the tournament was conducted and wish to express through the medium of our paper our thanks to all those connected with the organization of the meet.

The Wainwright boys and girls returned in victory. The Wainwright Basketball Boys won all their games. The first game was played against the Vermilion School of Agriculture, which was won by a score of 18 to 12. The second game was an other victory for the Wainwright boys, score being Wainwright 87, Vermilion Intermediates 12. The third game was played after supper by the Wainwright boys and the Vermilion seniors as an exhibition game. The encounter was close but Wainwright won by 7 to 6.

The girls won two out of three games. The first was played by the Wainwright girls and the Vermilion girls. The latter lost this game by 12 to 10.

After supper the girls triumphed 32 to 10 in their last game the local girls played Vermilion again and won by a close margin of 10 to 8.

A delicious lunch was served after the tournament and the Wainwright teams then started for home after enjoying themselves throughout the day in the college.

When Bold Pirates Roamed the Seas

Russell Thorndike, in the opinion of many English readers, has come closer to the atmosphere of Robert Louis Stevenson than any other modern writer in the stirring novel of smuggling in the days of knee-breeches, piracy and swigs which is adapted in this production of the G-B Gainsborough unit, booked for the local theatre this week end. The film, like the book, has the authentic atmosphere of blood-curdling adventure, the plentiful sensational incident and well maintained suspense and the refreshing freedom from sex and modernity which makes one feel young again in a world of lurid but happy make-believe. Anyone who can still recall "Treasure Island" should find "Doctor Syn" screen entertainment of a very stimulating kind.

With George Arliss exceptionally well cast as a village clergyman who was once a famous pirate, story values which offer many chances for stunting, and an exceptionally realistic atmosphere of England in the days when smuggling was a major industry, "Dr. Syn" appears an offering which is a really original and colorful picture from England.

The love interest is subsidiary. The murder of the village schoolmaster, to prevent him betraying the smugglers, is one of the many sensational incidents, apart from the main plot. There is good comedy relief by Graham-Moffatt, G-B's youthful discovery, as a village simpleton. Backgrounds of the old village, its inn, the marshes and the ancient church are admirably convincing.

WEDDING BELLS

HILL—FEET

At the Wainwright United Church parsonage a quiet wedding was performed in the presence of the immediate relatives when Ethel Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Peet of Jarrow, became the bride of Leonard Arthur Hill of Chigwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Peet of Clive.

Rev. T. E. Armstrong, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony which took place on Wednesday afternoon of last week.

Following a short honeymoon, the young couple will take up residence at Chigwell.

BANISH THOSE WRINKLES

Wrinkles are easy to acquire, but overcoming them presents a far from simple problem! It is only too true that "prevention" is infinitely better than "cure" for preventative measures adopted early enough would prevent much of the dissatisfaction and discontent that wrinkles create.

Wrinkles are more often to be found on dry skins than on oily skins, and therefore the first requisite is to lubricate the skin, using a cream with a rich base. It is also essential that this cream will possess qualities capable of revitalizing the tissues that underlie the skin.

Vitamin F is the only ingredient that possesses the power to rejuvenate the tissues, by application to the outer skin. This ingredient, which is a recent scientific discovery, gives new life to the tissues, nourishing them and combating deterioration, and thus enabling the skin to recuperate.

Once you have obtained a rich cream with Vitamin F base, it must be applied to the surface of the skin with light friction, using the fingers only. The massage is important, for you must see that the tips of the fingers are flat on the skin, and using both hands, smooth the skin in the direction opposite to which the wrinkles go.

If you are massaging the forehead, start in the middle and work out towards the temples. For the eyes, start the movement at the side nearest the nose and work your fingers outwards and around the top of your eyes. Do not merely massage to the outer edge of the eyes, for that is where lines are so apt to appear.

Smooth the skin at the outer edge and proceed right through with the movement around your eyes.

The World of Wheat

H. G. L. Strange.

Director, Research Department,
Searle Gmin Company, Ltd.

"What if you think of this wheat?" asked an Elevator Agent.

"That's a lovely-looking sample," I said. "Plump, of a fine deep-red color. Why, that's almost show wheat."

"Sure it is," said the Agent, "and it's also a good joke on you."

"Why?" I asked.

"Well, that comes from a field that you classed as no good last summer. You said it was Little Club wheat, and that the quality was terrible. Now you say it's fine."

"Can you get me about pound of wheat of another variety from the same farm?" I asked.

"Sure I can," said the Agent. "I can get you some Thatcher, but what will that prove?"

"Let's wait and see," I said. The pound of Thatcher arrived.

This, with a pound of the Little Club was made into loaves of bread by the Dominion Cereal Laboratory. The loaf made from the Thatcher wheat is tall and light, of a nice cream color, and has an appetizing appearance. The loaf made from the Little Club is about half as tall only, is dense and heavy looking, the crumb looks unappetizing and it is as yellow as a dandelion.

"Well," said the Agent, "It looks as though wheat varieties are just like people. You can't tell their quality or worth by the looks of them!"

Following factors have tended to raise price: Better political conditions aid European wheat trade—Winter wheat seeding backward in Roumania—Rains still lacking in Victoria, Australia—Russian wheat export surplus believed small—Northwestern India continues dry, seeding conditions unfavorable—Estimate of last Argentina corn crop reduced to 174 millions.

Following factors have tended to lower price: Large arrivals of wheat in Europe—Roumania and U.S.A. continue pressing subsidized wheat for export—World has largest rye crop in recent years—Rains relieve dryness in Balkans—Large exports of sorgho (beans) from Cyprus to Egypt—Argentine corn being pressed on Liverpool market.

Eastern Workmen and their Families
Eat over $20,000,000 worth of Western Meats and Butter

THE Eastern industrial worker likes Western food and he buys plenty of it — when he's working.

For instance, take an item like meat. Eastern sales alone brought the West nearly $20,000,000 in 1935. Sale of 10,000 tons of butter brought in nearly $5,000,000 more, while grain products, poultry and eggs meant another $15,000,000 in Western pockets.

That's why it's so vital to the West to keep the Eastern worker busy. And one way you help do it is by the purchase of a Canadian-built car, for an active Automotive Industry keeps many other industries humming — and all their workers and their families must be fed.

Of course, your money goes East — but it comes back to you in no uncertain fashion: in the purchases of your best customer, the industrial East, that aggregate over $40,000,000 a year.

CHARMING FROCK

Pattern 8724: Here you have a dress model which runs the gamut in general utility wear. Good for any daytime occasion on which you want trim, sporty, unstudied appearance.

The slenderized hip and waist lines give way to freedom in the skirt through the use of the popular skirt pleat in centre front.

Especially of interest to the sports girl is the inverted centre pleat in the back which allows for a full swing or a hard drive or whatever activity one's bent follows.

Women who like the button shoulder trim (and who doesn't?) will be more intrigued with the one-piece sleeve and yoke in this model. A shirtwaist-skirt combination which requires a minimum of sewing experience; it will serve well on many occasions.

MODERN WOMEN
CHARL ORMOND WILLIAMS
President of National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, Inc.

We learn from Mary V. Dempsey, an authority on the occupational progress of women, that in 1930 there were 1,000 or more women engaged in 208 occupations, an increase of 43 occupations in twenty years. Miss Dempsey has written a pamphlet, "The Occupational Progress of Women" for the Women's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor, giving statistics from 1910 to 1930. The pamphlet is filled with interesting figures. One is that school teachers advanced from fourth place in 1910 to second place in 1930, and stenographers and typists, the third occupation from a numerical standpoint in 1930, ranked eighth in 1910.

Dr. Eveline M. Burns, a lecturer in economics at Columbia University and widely known in women's organizations, has just been elected president of the American Association for the Advancement of Her work on the program of the Institute of Public Affairs at the University of Virginia last summer, when she directed and organized the round table on economic security, a well remembered by all who attended that gathering in which women for the first time had actual program leadership.

At the "Parade of the Years," an outdoor drama of transportation written by Edward Hungerford to celebrate Cleveland's centenary as a city, Marguerite Chaffee Kent will be the first time play the role of narrator. Mrs. Kent got her stage training under some of the best Broadway producers and directors, she is related, on her father's side, to General Adia R. Chaffee, famous leader during the Boxer Rebellion, she is a cousin of Helen Gahagan, actress and movie star.

FEEDING DRIED GRASS
ON AN ENGLISH FARM
Grass when cut at a height of four or five inches yields a rich protein feed high in carotene, source of vitamin A, which imparts to milk, butter and cheese the creamy color, quality and flavor typical of the products of spring pastures. Dried grass is therefore particularly valuable for winter feeding and, being high in protein, can replace other concentrates. There is now a British grass dryers' association which has adopted two commercial grades, one containing from 15 to 17% of protein, the other 17% and over.

In Cheshire, famous for its cheese, B. Leslie Emalie, Canadian chemist-agronomist, visited Dairy House farm near Crewe, where artificially dried grass is the sole concentrate fed to livestock, and the prime, well-fleshed condition of the animals testify to the success of the venture undertaken by Colonel W. R. Peel, who is not unknown in Canada. The farm of 170 acres carries from 60 to 70 milch cows producing milk which commands a premium for high butter fat, 30 to 45 heifers and calves, besides pigs, poultry and a few horses. The climate is humid and moderate, essential to the success of the system which depends on at least three cuttings of grass, or a total of over 5000 lb. green weight per acre, during the season.

The grass is cut by a one-horse mower on which is mounted a small motor for driving the knife-bar, a labor saver appreciated by the horse. The cut grass is trucked to the shed housing the Billingham dryer and baler. In the oven of the dryer, steamed with coke, a temperature of 140° C. is maintained. There are four large drying trays, two entering alternately on each side of the oven, holding the green and partially dried grass. After one turn in the oven the grass is forked to the adjoining tray and given the final toast, while the other tray receives fresh grass. The process, operated by two men, is continuous during the day only, and the rate of dried grass production is about 140 lbs. per hour. Calves, when two weeks old, are given access to dried grass which soon becomes their sole and ample source of sustenance. Young cows were seen in prime condition and highly productive, which had never received concentrates other than dried grass. The latter is supplemented with ordinary hay and also with molasses silage made from surplus grass.

Even in this fertile part of Cheshire where farms command a rental of $10.00 an acre, fertilizers are applied liberally, and in the production of grass for drying they are essential for rapid growth of herbage high in protein and minerals. At Dairy House Farm heavy applications of phosphate combined with potash are made in the fall, supplemented by nitrogen, as required, in spring. As Colonel Peel remarked, the saving in concentrates represents several times the amount of the fertilizer bill.

THE TANK HEATER
ON THE FARM
Most successful livestock farmers agree that removing the chill from the drinking water in cold weather is a profitable practice. The tank heater will accomplish this nicely. It is simple to install, not costly to operate, and if given careful attention, will remain in good repair for a number of years, states A. H. O. Colbert, Assistant Superintendent, Dominion Experimental Station, Rosthern, Sask. Cold water makes a sudden demand for a large amount of heat which may exceed the amount of excess heat being produced in the body. Food must therefore be used to bring the temperature up to normal. For this reason feed may be saved by removing the chill from the drinking water in cold weather, especially among stock which are exposed to the cold and fed scanty rations. In an experiment conducted at the Rosthern station in zero weather with two groups of market cattle wintered in corrals, the first of which had access to water from which the chill had been removed and the second to cold water only, it was observed that in the first group there was a continuous movement of the animals to and from the trough even during the daily feeding periods and the cattle appeared contented and comfortable while the members of the second group would take possibly one large drink and then stand with their backs humped. In some cases shivering was very noticeable in the second group and the lustre of their coats was not so marked, and this group did not make the same daily gains during the very cold weather being troubled more with impaction and digestive disorders.

Milk cows in the Rosthern herd gave higher and more constant production when the chill was removed from their drinking water in zero weather, and it was noticed that the water was taken at more regular intervals. Brood sows preferred snow to cold water unless the chill was removed from it. In the latter case the sows drank considerable water at feeding time; they were easier to maintain in condition and farrowed stronger litters. It will generally be found that the cost of the tank heater together with the fuel to operate it will be more than compensated for in the gains, increased production, and health of the animals during the cold weather.

RAW MILK CAUSES HUMAN TUBERCULOSIS
Until recent years bovine tuberculosis in human beings was believed to be confined to the bones and glands in the main, and that such infection left the lungs alone. However it was proved at the University of Pennsylvania in 1902, that lung infection may arise in consequence of the entrance of the bovine type of germ. Since that time, reports of the English and German Commissions on the subject confirm the fact that there is grave danger of lung infection especially in children from the use of raw milk from tuberculous cows.

In Denmark in the period February 1931 to July, 1933, 26 patients were found to have lung tuberculosis of the bovine type. During the same period the bovine germ was found in 39 specimens of pus from the cervical glands and in the cerebro-spinal fluid and urine taken from residents of Copenhagen. All of these patients were under 35 years of age and 10 of them under 12.

SLAT'S DIARY

Sunday: I & Pa & Ma was out riding in the city and a policeman nearly arrested Pa for sum thing he done wrong. The policeman at Pa why he done it & Pa sed he guest it was because the driver went to sleep in the back seat. Just then Ma woke up & what she sed to Pa when we drive on I will not repeat.

Monday: The newspaper yesterday sed the banks have a offe lotta money & no hoddie will carry it. I suppose they have not hard about me. I will spend cashen lone if they are so kene thataway.

Tuesday: I am informed that the gov. is to spend thirteen thousand and 450 $ a minnet dooring the next fiscal yr. All I have to say is that United Slat must have a lotta James & Elays to by ice cream for tuberculous cows.

Wednesday: Are class was ast by the teacher did we believe they otto change the styles of boys and girls garments this winter. Blisters spoke up & repilde & sed he thot they otto be sum change in the pockets of boys and pants. It took time but when the point were seen evryboddie laft & all agreed it were a purty wise crack. Thursday: James stomperfy and uperting aint a getting no better fast. She was told to rite sum thin about Eley winning a award at the cooking school & here are the result of the effort—Miss Eley Jones were awarded the Blue ribbon 1st prize on her hoad sweet tickles.

Friday: Ma was to her club this p.m. or 1 of them and at super she sed they discuss Husbands who talk in thare sleep & what to do about same. To cure it she meant. Pa got himself in bad by up & saying I remedy is to let them talk while awake. Just a little, he sed, but Ma got sorta huffy about what he sed enyhow.

Saturday: Well, I diddnt hefta go to school this a.m. but I got no very grate benefit out of it after all. I had to go down in the basement & clean out the ferness & shovel some coal and etc. All of sum led up to the tedious car and neck washen I was ever the cheef mourner at. A 1 time I even wishd it were a school day but that were before it were over with.

ARE YOU DOING YOUR SHARE?

Every person likes to think of himself as living in a good community; a community where everyone is interested in the welfare and progress, materially and otherwise, of every body else. A community where there is a good neighborly spirit; where people serve for the love of service; and where your next-door neighbor can be relied on to assist in any emergency—to share his best loaf with you if your supply should run out, says an exchange.

How do we measure up in respect to these things? How loyal are we to the interests of Wainwright and this community? Our community pride should go much deeper than dollars and cents.

To have a live and progressive community we must be good citizens and take personal pride in our home and surroundings. We must put forth an effort to co-operate with all public officials in every move that will improve our public services, and give greater opportunities for our boys and girls. We must obey the law ourselves and encourage all others to do the same.

Then, to have an up-and-coming community, we must have business places and stores that are a credit to the town; that are well stocked, well managed, and which purvey merchandise at prices that compare favorably with city prices.

How may we obtain these? The only fair way is to consistently patronize the men who have invested their capital in business houses and stocks and plants in our midst. Everyone knows the lure of distant fields, and to some extent all are guilty of the practice of buying away—even storekeepers themselves! However, it should be the aim of all to "shop at home". We all spend the odd sum away; kiddies old and young like something from afar; but when stores close to close to close order and city prices at Wainwright firms do, then in fairness to the men who face the changes in financial conditions as our merchants do, we owe it to ourselves to give them our support, and to check the cheap parsimony which seems to be gaining prevalence even in the higher places!

A live, progressive community attracts settlers. Added population means added business, and added business means a better and larger store, better and larger schools, a more sound financial condition, lower taxes, and many other inducements to prosperity, economy and solidity that are impossible in a community where all are living a "dog-out-of-the" life, and each is interested only in the small circle of people of which he is the centre, and of which each hopes to be the one to benefit most.

What kind of a community do you want here? This is your home and your dominion, so let us all join in making it the sort of place in which we want to live, and which shall be truly a credit to all within its borders!

SWEEPSTAKES

Another sweepstake has come and gone and a few fortunate individuals are set up for life (if they use the old head, which is strictly up to them) and good old Ireland has scooped in a few more hundred thousands for their hospitals—joy be with her! says an exchange.

Still there are enough dumbbells in Canada to continue their stubborn resistance to a national sweepstake for the benefit of OUR hospitals and the poor people needing that necessary assistance. Gambling! Oh, yes! It would be terrible to foster the spirit of gambling by allowing the speculation of one or two dollars giving the chance of a competence to a poor man. Keep the poor man poor, if it's give him ANY chance in life for it's anyway possible to avoid doing so. Besides we have horse-racing and if a person must gamble THERE is every chance in the world for anyone to gamble to their heart's content with their own or other people's money and every chance eventually to land in the police court. And for those for whom horse-racing does not come often enough for their means there is always an opportunity open to ruin themselves on the stock exchange; if gambling in wheat won't do it they can always try oil, if that fails, gold mines, stocks and shares and other gambling devices are there ready to hand at any time, and if you have only the odd quarter to spare you can always chuck it away on a gamble for a motor car. Oh, yes! gambling is a sin and every effort should be made to suppress it. But you and above all be sure never have a sweepstake in Canada. It MIGHT do a large amount of good and practically no harm—and there would be no sense in that!

PLEASANT
FLEAGANDA

Living in Canada is very much like living on a luxurious ocean liner. Both the liner and Canadian ship of state are controlled by able executives who chart a wise course and bring their ship safely to port.

Meanwhile what are provided for the comfort, convenience and enjoyment of the passengers. On the liner every opportunity is taken by the management to acquaint the passengers of the many services the steamship company places at their disposal. But on the Canadian ship of state there is frequently not sufficient effort made to inform citizens what services and advantages the Government is offering them.

So it isn't surprising that a large proportion of our population are not aware of all the privileges which are theirs by right as Canadian citizens. That the Federal Government realizes the value of publicity is evident in the advertising now running in this paper. The Canadian ship of state is the Department of Fisheries, Ottawa. Perhaps this is the beginning of a well-thought-out plan on the part of the government to advertise various services with a view to bringing their advantages to the attention of the public.

After all, the business of the State when it provides facilities for the people is very much like any other business. The public must know about a service before they can patronize it.

There is another excellent reason to support the advertising of the Government's services. That reason is the unceasing activity of the enemies of democratic governments. These enemies advertise these grievances, often or fanned, at every opportunity, often create wrong impressions which are difficult to counteract.

One of the best defenses that democracy can use against this sort of influence is to keep the public constantly informed about the excellent services and privileges that are provided for them.

Greater confidence in the government's administration is bound to follow the widespread advertising of the Government's services.

The Dial Review
by Walter Dales

It has been my conviction that there should be laws against early rising. If writing radio columns had not taken up so much of my time, I am sure that long ago I would have been swept into the mad race of a stay-in-bed-until-noon movement, championing the belief of the suffering majority that a man or woman cannot be cheerful, happy nor a good citizen if aroused from slumber before the clock strikes noon.

Now, however, I am disillusioned. It happened like this.

I promised to give you the viewpoint of my milk man on CICA programs before I discovered that in order to meet the gentleman I must rise at 6:30 a.m. and stand guard by the empty milk bottles that keep company with the wolf at my door. But a promise is a promise, and yesterday morning I was there, pyjama clad, to welcome my milkman.

Over a pot of java, I put the question to him: "What type of radio program do you prefer?" and "What, if any, is your pet radio peeve?" He surprised me with his early-morning cheerfulness, and readiness to go into the matter fully.

Here's what my milkman said: "You fellows who stay in bed until noon, you don't know anything about it. I don't mind admitting, well on into the day will find it hard to understand this, but to tell the truth, my favorite program is the CICA Rise and Shine program, at 6:30 every morning. Unfortunately I can hear it only on my day off, and it is kind of tough getting up at 6:30 every day in the week. But it's worth it. It starts the day off right. Of course, there are several good night time programs. By that time I am tired out, so I want programs with plenty of life in them. My favorite night time show is Spotlight Parade. It has variety, good music, and I've been told that it is all Canadian talent. I like American stuff, of course, but I've found that the Corporation has got a radio appetite that will digest brought it to Canada. But just the same, it pleases me when Canadians show that they can do just as well or better themselves.

"I can't think of any pet peeve I have. I suppose radio has some faults, but there has been nothing special that I would take exception to."

So said my milkman—and I crawled back to bed, only to lie awake wondering how human beings could go about their work at such an ungracious hour without even a pet peeve to keep them company.

In the afternoon, I called at my favorite filling station with the same queries—but this time the answers were different.

The filling station operator said: "The city by-law prohibits us from selling gasoline after eight o'clock at night, so I usually lock up shop at that hour. But on Friday nights I've formed the habit of staying here fifteen minutes longer in order to hear Beverly Baxter from London, Eng. I think he can say more in fifteen minutes than any speaker I have heard. Furthermore, the advertising on his program is short and well delivered. And that leads to my pet peeve—I don't like long spiels about products. I don't mind advertising, but I don't like long spiels about products. I don't mind advertising, but I don't like long spiels about products.

Next on the list was a Doctor and I like lots of radio programs. Lux Radio Theatre is my favorite, but I like them all. You might get a laugh out of this, but I even follow some of the children's serial stories, and I'll tell you why. Radio will take my mind off myself. I can sit down at night and listen to a variety of music or drama, it's all the same to me. Perhaps I lack good taste or something, I don't know. But I've found that the Corporation has got a radio appetite that will digest brought it to Canada. But just the same, it pleases me when Canadians show that they can do just as well or better themselves.

"My pet peeve? Well, I don't like people who talk all through a radio program when I am trying to listen. I take radio seriously. If I can't give it my full attention, I shall sit off faults, but there has been nothing special that I would take exception to."

Just in case you've got the doctor's complex, here's a varied radio menu I recommend for this week, from CICA:

Friday: A brand new show, that I think you'll find refreshing. It's called Once Upon a Time, and critics are claiming it does for radio what movies. Tune it in at 6:00 p.m.

Saturday: The National Hockey League Broadcast with Foster Hewitt at the mike. The time, 7:00 p.m.

Sunday: Eva Le Gallienne, famous stage actress, in another of the CBC's popular Shakespearean presentations "Romeo and Juliet".

The Community Hall dance is Friday, November 18th. Your ticket on the Coleman lamp may be the lucky one.

HOPE VALLEY

We must admit we were very remiss in our editorial duties last week but we can only plead sickness and hope for the indulgence of our readers.

The dance held in the school on October 28th was a huge success. Leo Hutchinson, from Vanest, was the lucky winner of the fruit cake. When we add that Mrs. E. P. Taylor baked the cake you will realize that Leo really was lucky.

The Armistice dance at Giles on Friday drew a goodly crowd of merry makers, and did they have a good time? They did.

A resolution was passed at the last regular meeting of Hope Valley branch of the Communist Party condemning all talk of secession as disloyal, un-Canadian and contrary to the best interests of the Canadian people.

The Junior U.F.A. held a very busy meeting Nov. 9. Plans were drawn up for the next meeting. Any young people who miss that meeting will miss a really enjoyable evening, so don't forget to be there. The time, 8 p.m., Nov. 23rd, the place, Giles school and all young people in the district are welcome.

There will be a big box social in Giles school on Friday, Dec. 2. Don't miss it.

The Juniors are holding their second annual New Year's dance at Rosedale on Dec. 30.

"The Kidnap Murder Case"

by S. S. Van Dine

There was a brief respite of black, whimsical voice. "My sincerest apologies, so poignant as to be almost palpable, and then came the crash of an upset chair and the dull heavy sound of a human body striking the floor. I was afraid to move. Heath's labored breathing made a welcome noise at my side.

Then I heard Vance's voice—the cynical nonchalant voice I knew so well. The ray from Heath's pocket flash by to the two prostrate bodies. After moved about the wall and ceiling, but I could see neither him nor Vance. Then the light came to a halt, and Heath's triumphant voice rang out. "Here it is, sir—a sock-belt under the window." And as he spoke a weak, yellowed bulb dimly lit up the room. On the floor lay two motionless bodies.

"Pleasant evening, Sergeant," Vance spoke in his usual steady, geant.

The Family Doctor

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

Warm Weather Awakens Germ Life

Truly a household staple is the bottle of tincture of iodine. Each family should see to it that this friend of mankind is newly replenished, and kept within easy reach. What with the extra garden work, house cleaning and the like, so many wounds are rather common, and from these, if untreated, trouble ranging from mild infection to the deadly tetanus. It is always wise to take no chances.

Never mind about the brown stain caused by the application of the drug. I'd rather tell all over again how to use it. I have seen a man, a killer than to be called to attend one small zone of angry "strep" infection. The advent of mild, warm weather is most certainly an awakener of germ life as well as plant life.

A small roll of good adhesive plaster of the very best make, should be in every medicine cabinet. Upon the occurrence of the scratch on the hand or finger, immediately swab it with tincture of iodine. If the remedy is not near at hand, application is thus delayed, wash the member with clean soap and water to remove possible particles of foreign matter, dry gently, and get the iodine. Make a thorough soaking application. When dry, apply a strip of clean adhesive to stay on as long as there is no pain under it. The size of the adhesive should be governed by the size of the wound.

If you are handy with scissors, an inch-square adhesive with hole cut in its center and the opening covered with a smaller square of clean gauze, will make a perfect cover for the wound, which will heal faster if it can be reached by air. But do not ignore little things—they are the ones that count.

BRUCE BARTON

Says

Lucky Should Be Humble

My wise friend William Hard is liked by statesmen because he never betrays their confidence, and because his even as they are. He stands up to the full measure of his five feet five inches, and tells them the truth.

In a queer, shy fashion Calvin Coolidge warmed toward him, and the two had many a long and humorous visit. One night Bill said: "Mr. President, I think I should like to be President of the United States myself one of these days. I wish you would tell me how to go about it to realize my ambition. You have been through the mill and your counsel ought to save me quite a bit of time."

Coolidge looked down his long nose, and then drawled: "Well, I can give you the formula. You just have to keep plugging along as hard as you can, and then hope for a million lucky breaks."

That sentiment does not have any very heroic ring. It does not echo Nathan Hale's, "I regret that I have but one life to give for my country," nor does it remind one of Napoleon's, "There are no Alps."

But there is a certain attractive honesty in the Coolidge statement. Most big men, if given an opportunity to be correspondingly frank, would admit that luck has played a large part in their success. One such man, who amassed several million dollars in the manufacturing business, said: "People credit me with superior intelligence and enterprise because I have made millions. But I also have just millions. What about the superior intelligence and enterprise then?"

Trains Do Stop

William James, the psychologist, remarked that the average man is an old fogey at twenty-five. He means that he even as they are. He stands up to the full measure of his five feet five inches, and tells them the truth.

The friend's car suffered an accident while he and his chauffeur were on the way to Chicago. Rather than lose a day and miss an important engagement, he decided to push on by rail. The station agent informed him that a local would be along in about six hours.

"But what about the next express?" the stranded gentleman inquired.

"Oh, no use talking about express trains. They never stopped here and they never will."

The man remarked that his name was not unknown to the officials of the road and that they might, if advised of the circumstances by wire, have an express take him on.

The station agent scoffed. "Nothing doing," he spluttered. "Ain't never stopped and never will." Under much duress he finally sent the telegram. When the train did stop his disgust knew no bounds. "It just ain't got no business to," he spluttered.

It was said of Socrates that he found no more satisfaction in convincing others of their mistakes than in having his own errors pointed out. A long time had to wait before the world recognized that Socrates was great; most of his neighbors in Athens just thought that he was a little queer.

The last word had been only half completed when there came two shots from the rear door. The slim, crouching figure of a man, somewhat scholarly looking and well dressed, had suddenly appeared there.

Vance had swung about simultaneously with his warning to Heath, and there were two more shots in rapid succession, this time from Vance's gun.

I saw the poised revolver of blue steel drop from the raised hand of the man at the rear door, and both his hands went to his abdomen. He remained upright for a moment; then he doubled up and sank to the floor where he lay in an awkward cramped heap.

Heath's revolver too dropped from his grip. He staggered backward a few feet and laid heavily into a chair.

"The baby winged me," Heath said with an effort. "My gun jammed." He had barely finished speaking when we heard a repeated ringing near us.

"By Jove, a telephone!" commented Vance. "Now we'll have to find the instrument."

Heath straightened up. "The thing's right here on the mantle," he said.

"You'd better let me answer it, Mr. Vance. You're to be refined." He pick-

Vance bound himself with the cruel cords binding her wrists. "When he had released them he laid his ear against her heart for a moment, and poured a little of the cognac from his flask between her lips. She swallowed automatically and coughed. Then Vance lifted her in his arms and vanished from the room.

I preceded him as he carried his inert burden down the dingy stairway.

"We must get her to a hospital at once, Van," he said when we had reached the lower hallway.

The Chinaman still lay where we had left him, on the floor against the wall.

"Drag him up to that pipe in the corner, Mr. Van Dine," the Sergeant told me in a strained voice. "My arm is sorta numb."

I moved the limp form of the Chinaman until his head came into contact with the pipe; and Heath, with one hand, drew out a pair of handcuffs. Clamping one of the manacles on the unconscious man's right wrist, he pulled it around the pipe and with his foot manipulated the Chinaman's left arm upward till he could close the second man around it.

Then we both went out into the murky night, Heath slamming the door behind him. Vance, with his burden, was perhaps a hundred yards ed up the receiver with his left hand. "What do you want?" he asked in a gruff, officious tone. There was a pause. "Oh, yeah? O.K. go ahead," Mrs. Kenting on the rear seat of the tonneau and arranged the cushions under her head.

"I'm heading for the Doran Hospital, just this side of Bronx Park, Sergeant," Vance said, as we sped along. In about fifteen minutes, ignoring all traffic lights and driving at a rate far exceeding the city speed limit, we were up in front of the hospital.

Vance jumped from the car, took Mrs. Kenting in his arms again, and carried her up the wide marble steps. He returned to the car in less than ten minutes.

"Everything's all right, Sergeant," the lady said as he approached the car. "The lady has regained consciousness. Fresh air did it."

Heath had stepped out of the car and was standing on the sidewalk. "So long, Mr. Vance," he said. "I'm getting in that taxi up ahead. I gotta get back to that damn house I got work to do."

"Stay right here, Sergeant, and get that arm properly dressed first," He led Heath back, and accompanying him up the hospital steps.

A few minutes later Vance came out alone.

"The noble Sergeant is all right Van," he said, as he took his place at the wheel again. "He'll be out before long."

When we reached Vance's apartment later Heath entered the door for us. There was relief written in every line of the old butler's face.

"Good heavens, Currie," said Vance as he stepped inside. "I told you, you might tick yourself in at eleven o'clock if you hadn't heard from me."

"I'm sorry, sir," Currie said in a voice which, for all its formality had an emotional tremor in it. "I couldn't go to bed, sir, until you returned. I'm very glad you have come home, sir."

"You're a sentimental old fossil, Currie," Vance complained, handing the butler his hat.

"Mr. Markham is waiting in the library," said Currie.

As we entered the library, we found Markham pacing up and down.

"Well, thank God," he said. "And though he attempted to sound trivial, his relief was as evident as old Currie's had been."

"Greetings, old dear," said Vance. "Why this unexpected pleasure of your presence at such an hour?"

"I was merely interested, officially in what you might have found on Lord Street," returned Markham. "I'm frightfully sorry, Markham."

Hints for the Household

Conducted By Betty Barclay

CANADIAN FISH LOAF

- 1 lb. can Canadian salmon
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1 tablespoon finely minced onion or onion juice
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs (fine)
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Remove the skin from the fish, crush the bones, flake the salmon, and use the oil. Add the bread crumbs, beaten eggs, milk and minced onion and lemon juice. Mix well. Place in a greased loaf tin, dot until the loaf is firm and browned. Unmould on a platter and serve with a medium sauce to which a sliced hard-boiled egg has been added. A teaspoon of Worcestershire sauce adds a little zip to the sauce.

This Canadian fish loaf may be varied by using halibut or cod, or any other fish available in the market. The bones and oil contain body building vitamins. The bones soften during the cooking and do not change the texture of the finished loaf.

Garnish with slices of lemon, and serve green peas and plain boiled potatoes, tossed in butter.

CITRUS COMBINATIONS

So much is being said about the value of citrus fruits in the diet that I am sure my readers will be interested in the following recipes which call for both oranges and lemons.

Golden Gate Punch

- (Serves 10-12)
- ¾ to 1 cup sugar
- 1½ cups lemon juice
- 1 cup orange juice
- 2 cups grape juice or juice from any berry
- 6 cups water
- Ice

Combine. Garnish with lemon slices.

Orange Waffles

- (Serves 4-6)
- 2 eggs, beaten
- ¼ cup sugar
- 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- Beat these together. Sift:
- ¾ cups pastry flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt

Add to first mixture alternately with:

- 1-3 cup Sunkist orange juice

he said, "But I fear I have made you a bit of trouble. . . . The fact is," he added carelessly, "I killed three men."

"Are you serious?" blurted Markham.

"Oh, quite," answered Vance. "Do you think you can save me from the dire consequences?"

And then he told Markham in detail everything that had happened that night. But I thought he too greatly minimized his own part in the tragic drama. When he had finished his recital he asked somewhat coyly:

"Am I a doomed culprit, or were there about your case had happened circumstances?—I'm horribly weak on the intricacies of the law, don't you know."

"Dannit! I forget everything," said Markham. "If you're really worried, I'll get you a brass medal as big as Columbus Circle."

The front door bell rang, and a minute later Heath entered the library. His ordinary ruddy face was a little pale and drawn, and his right arm was in a sling. He saluted Markham and turned sheepishly to Vance.

"Your old sawbones at the hospital told me I had to go home," he complained. "And there's nothing in God's world the matter with me," he added disgruntledly. "Imagine him putting this arm in a sling—Hell! If my gun hadn't jammed—"

"Yes, that was a bad break, Sergeant," nodded Markham.

Vance and Markham and Heath discussed the case from various angles for perhaps a half hour longer. Markham was getting impatient.

"I'm going home," he said finally, as he rose. "We'll get this thing straightened out in the morning."

"Is there anything you want me to do, Mr. Vance?" Heath's tone was respectful, but a little weary.

Vance looked at him with commiseration.

NO, OURS ISN'T FOR SALE. BUT YOU CAN BUY ITS PRODUCTS—AND THAT IS A LOT BETTER THAN HAVING A PLANT OF YOUR OWN.

LET'S SKIP THE OFFICE (WHERE WE PLAN TO KEEP OUR OVERHEADS FROM GETTING UNDER FOOT), SINCE WE ARE TALKING ABOUT THE PLANT. WE HAVE THE MOST APPROVED TYPE SETTING EQUIPMENT, WELL LAID OUT FOR EFFICIENT WORKING CONDITIONS; WE HAVE NEW, HIGH-SPEED PRESSES IN OUR PRINTING DEPARTMENT; WE HAVE BINDING FACILITIES SUFFICIENT FOR THE USUAL REQUIREMENTS AND ACCESS TO SPECIALTY NEEDS; WE HAVE LIGHT, AIRY QUARTERS IN WHICH ALL OF THIS EQUIPMENT IS HOUSED—AND MORE.

WE HAVE AN ORGANIZATION OF SKILLED CRAFTSMEN WHO TAKE KEEN DELIGHT IN DOING THEIR WORK JUST A LITTLE BETTER THAN YOU WOULD EXPECT THEM TO DO—UNTIL YOU KNOW THEM. THEN YOU REALIZE IT IS BECAUSE THEY ARE IN LOVE WITH THEIR ART AND CRAFT.

WANT TO BUY THE PRODUCT OF SUCH A PLANT? THAT'S FINE! WE WILL BE GLAD TO CALL AND TALK IT OVER WHENEVER YOU SAY THE WORD.

Our Yield Per Acre

WELL, COUNTRY NEWSPAPERS DO NOT EXACTLY CALCULATE THEIR YIELD BY THE ACRE, BUT LIKE FARMERS, THEY DO HAVE GOOD AND POOR YIELDS. EACH SUBSCRIBER TO THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS OFFICE IS LIKE AN ACRE TO A FARMER. SOMETIMES THEY YIELD GOOD, OTHER TIMES NOT SO GOOD. DRY WEATHER, POOR PRICES, HAIL AND FROST HAVE THEIR EFFECT ON OUR YIELD TOO AND OFTEN WE WAIT YEARS BEFORE OUR RETURNS COME IN.

IN A SHORT TIME WE WILL BE SENDING OUT NOTICES TO ALL SUBSCRIBERS IN ARREARS AND WE HOPE FOR A GOOD RESPONSE. WE DO NOT EXPECT TO GET ALL THE ARREARS BUT WE DO HOPE TO GET A GOOD YIELD. ALL WE ASK IS THAT SUBSCRIBERS TREAT US AS GENEROUSLY AS NATURE TREATS THEM.

The Ottawa Listening Post

Canada's new Conservative leader is a man of his word. Three weeks ago he went West after a long series of interviews with Eastern business interests the result of which was a tacit understanding that the word "revolution" would not pass his lips. He has returned from his Western tour without once having mentioned that bogey man which so upset the temperamental prima donnas of St. James Street.

In other respects too the leader's Western speeches should have been satisfactory to the business groups among his followers. They were moderate in the extreme. They departed not one iota from the approved tenets of Conservatism including the traditional tariff policy, which often before has been temporarily hidden away when Conservative politicians have canvassed for the Prairie votes. If Dr. Manion's Western utterances lacked some of the punch that characterized his Maritime tour, they did not show any lack of courage in the new leader. He told free trade audiences, without evasion, that the East must have its tariff protection even at the expense of the Western farmer. He walked into the lion's den of se-

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

I know a man, writes Dale Carnegie, who always gets at least a million letters a year. That means more than eight thousand letters a day, or twenty-eight letters while you are reading this sentence. Many of his correspondents call him ten kinds of a blankety-blank liar. He has been branded as a liar more often by more people than has anyone else who ever lived. And he loves it.

He has received letters without any name at all on the envelopes; they were merely addressed: "To the Biggest Liar in the World," and, believe it or not, the Post Office delivered them to Robert L. Ripley. Ripley makes a living by making people gasp. He made me gasp once when he showed me a letter written on a piece of human skin; and he made me gasp when he showed me a message a man had written him on a single human hair. "I couldn't believe it until I put the hair under a microscope and then I read the message just as plainly as if it had been written on a piece of paper. It said: 'The finest welcome in the world to Robert L. Ripley.'"

One man from Adara, Pennsylvania wrote Ripley a message on a grain of rice. Think of it! Seven hundred words, or two thousand, eight hundred and sixty letters on one grain of rice. Of course you can't read these letters with the naked eye; but I read them very easily under a microscope. He made me gasp when he said that if he killed me at midnight and every person who was told about it, told two other people within twelve minutes, everybody on earth would know it before morning.

The story of Ripley's own life is almost as incredible as his cartoons. His father was a carpenter and he warned Ripley that if he became an artist, he would starve to death. The old man wanted his little boy to be a plumber or a bricklayer.

Ripley was "fired" from the first three newspapers on which he worked; yet he is making more money today than are the men who own the newspapers that "fired" him. Ripley never studied drawing; yet he is the most widely imitated cartoonist in the world.

One cold December day in 1918—exactly one week before Christmas—he sat in his office trying to think of an idea for a cartoon. An hour or two slipped by. He couldn't think of a thing. The deadline was approaching. He had to draw something; so, in desperation, he picked up a few astonishing facts about athletics and made a cartoon called "Chumps and Champs". He didn't like the title, so he substituted "Believe It or Not."

This was the turning point of his life. One little idea on a dull, dreary afternoon, and presto!—he was on his way to a sensational, world-wide success. But it didn't come immediately.

He drew a "Believe It or Not" cartoon once a week for ten years; and, believe it or not, it attracted comparatively little attention. For ten years his feature tottered on the verge of failure. As Ripley once said to me: "You work and slave for ten years, then become famous in ten minutes."

That is about what happened to him. For one day, in September, 1928, he drew a cartoon that started a million readers. He created a nation-wide furor when he said that Lindbergh was the sixty-seventh man to make a non-stop flight across the Atlantic Ocean. People rose up in indignation and demanded that he retract his impudent and insulting lie. But Ripley pointed out that Brown and Alcock had flown across the Atlantic years before Lindbergh was ever heard of—and so did the English dirigible, R34, with thirty-one men aboard; and so did the German dirigible, ZR3, with thirty-three men. So Lindbergh was really the sixty-seventh.

William Randolph Hearst saw that cartoon and was entranced. So he insisted that Ripley draw a "Believe It or Not" cartoon for every one of his papers every day, and Ripley started skyrocketing to fame.

cession and preached national unity. Breaking as they did through the walls of party politics, Dr. Manion's doctrines stood out in refreshing contrast to the coincident charges of the Saskatchewan farmers that they were being milked by the East and equally irresponsible answers from Ontario. The cross-section of opinion, always to be found in Canada's capital, has given unanimous approval to the Leader's presentation of the case for a united Canada.

Tariff drains on the Western farmer's purse are recognized. To no less extent is it recognized that Eastern Canada is the main, if not the only beneficiary of this tariff policy. The "milk cow" claims of the Saskatchewan farmers if they had been put in the past tense dating back to the days of prairie prosperity might have been not without some justice. But today the balance has swung over. The East is paying out compensation to the West to the tune of hundreds of millions of dollars.

Here are a few examples: Subsidies to the Western farmer through the 80-cent minimum wheat price will cost the federal treasury an amount now estimated at something over $50,000,000.

Federal relief programmes since 1930 have contributed more than $75,000,000 to Manitoba, $51,000,000 to Saskatchewan, and some $16,000,000 to Alberta.

Federal loans to the Western provinces at September 30 stood at $21,388,000 for Manitoba, $51,245,000 for Saskatchewan and $26,079,000 for Alberta. This money comes mainly from the income levies in one form or another on the tariff-protected industrialism of Eastern Canada. It is a part of that tariff compensation which, in the words of Dr. Manion, the West should expect from the East.

Another traveller in Western Canada whose activities are being watched with some interest from the capital is W. D. Herridge. After the Conservative convention in July when he tossed a few bombs into the complacent ranks of old-line Tories, Mr. Herridge dropped mysteriously from the political picture. The first news in months that Ottawa received of his doings was when he boarded Dr. Manion's train and had breakfast with the leader. The coffee and toast conference, however, was apparently no party of reconciliation. Mr. Herridge, Ottawa bears, has an ambitious idea for a new third party which would mean the left wing group from the Conservative ranks. Mr. Herridge, it is said, is now wedded to a monetary form on a Social Credit basis—not the philosophy which Mr. Abernethy established in Alberta but another branch from the Douglas stem. At present he is believed to be concentrating his attentions on Manitoba, where the Bracken government is leaning on by benefit of its Social Credit allies. If his efforts could bring about an election in this province, the new party might suddenly blossom forth with its odd assortment of bedfellows, including Social Creditors, Conservatives, Communists and C.C.F.

With Mr. Lapointe's announcement that Parliament would not be called before the New Year the capital has settled down again to take advantage of the breathing spell. The pre-Christmas opening had undoubtedly been considered seriously enough to start departments working overtime on estimates. The Government evidently was making tentative plans to launch its major achievement, the U.S. trade treaty, on the House in an effort to get it working as soon after the expiration of the old agreement as possible. Hitches and delays at Washington are believed to have been a major factor in discarding the idea of the early session.

Among the many things which hinge on the completion of this trade treaty is government policy with regard to the Maritime fisheries. If Canada can get even half what she has asked at Washington in tariff concessions on cod and haddock, it is believed that the government may be ready to launch some constructive plan to rehabilitate the fisheries. Unless some move is made, the Nova Scotia coast is likely to prove fertile ground for opposition campaigning in a 1939 election.

June was believed to be a lucky month for marriages as far back as the early Roman days.

NEWS & VIEWS OF TOWN AND DISTRICT

Mrs. H. Durrant, who was a former resident here, was a guest of Mrs. L. Scott for a few days last week, and has now returned to her home at Bowden, Alta.

Mr. H. Pigeon was in town from Turner Valley last week for a day or two.

The park riders will commence this week on their annual round-up for the animals which will figure in the buffalo kill in a week or two.

Good lump coal at the Atlas yard at $4.20 per ton. Burns freely, throws great heat and does not clinker. Joe Welch mgr.

Mr. W. Heffernan was a business visitor to the city last week.

Among those summoned to attend at the next jury trials in Edmonton are Messrs. L. O'Reilly, J. W. Stuart and S. Kilby. Court opens on Nov. 28th.

We are glad to note that Mrs. Wm. Bissan has now returned from Edmonton much improved in health.

Mr. J. Wainwright, of Calgary, spent a couple of days in town last week on business.

Owing to a recurrence of trouble from an old shrapnel wound which he received in France in the Great War, Dr. H. Wallace is a patient at the University hospital for treatment.

Mr. Geo. Gothard and his daughter were over from Wetaskiwin on Sunday to visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. Carael.

Mr. Bill Kinnaird, who was formerly employed by Mr. Walter Adams at Fabyan, has now left for the States to reside for the winter at least.

As it is expected that the snowfall will keep the roads open all winter, several farmers are lining up their garages at home so as to use their cars right through. Mr. Sid Woodward is one of these thoughtful ones.

Haul out your coal before the roads are blocked with snow. Your choice of North Star, Black Diamond, Kent, Wildfire or Jasper Hard coal at the Atlas yard. Joe Welch, mgr.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Bamealis and their little daughter left on Monday night last for their new home at Chilliwack, B.C. We understand that Mr. Alan Golding will farm the former Bamealis holdings in the Pixiot district.

While hauling another large B.A. gas tank to town last week and the big truck belonging to John Mackay, of Paradise Valley could not negotiate the icy grade on the Fabyan hill. In backing down to get a fresh start it went off the grade and rolled into the ditch but luckily did not catch fire. It required a couple of tractors to pull it back on to the road and up the hill.

A chance to get insulating material almost free! The Atlas Lumber Co. have half a carload of loose shavings which must be moved to make room in their coal bins and are selling these while they last at 40c per 100 lbs. These are bone dry; there's a lot of insulating material in 100 lbs. of these. See Joe Welch.

Miss Willetta Armstrong and her brother Brock were both home to spend the week end with their parents in town.

Suffering from an attack of flu, Mr. C. McBride, manager of the Bank of Montreal, was confined to his bed for a few days but is now recovering.

No less than five carloads more of beef cattle were shipped by Ben Rasch to the eastern markets on Saturday last from this point. This made nearly fifty loads he has sent east this season.

COMING EVENTS

The Ladies' Aid of St. Andrew's (Pres.) church will hold their annual Christmas bazaar in the I.O.O.F. hall on Saturday, Nov. 19th, starting at 2:30 p.m. Fancy and useful articles will be on sale at prices not exceeding one dollar. Everybody welcome; afternoon tea will be served.

St. Thomas' (Ang.) church W.A. will hold their annual sale of work and afternoon tea in the Oddfellows Hall on Saturday, November 26th, at 3 o'clock.

The Annual Bazaar arranged by the W.A. of the Wainwright United church has now been set to be held in the I.O.O.F. Hall on Saturday, December 3rd next, commencing at 3 p.m. Fancy Goods, Home Cooking, Candy, etc. The 1939 Birthday Calendar will also be on sale. Afternoon tea will be served. Everybody invited.

THANK YOU!

Our thanks are due to those ladies who gave so freely of their time to make our Poppy Campaign the best yet and also to the people of Wainwright who contributed so freely and generously.

We are deeply indebted to the clergy of Wainwright who helped in our Annual Memorial Service and to Mr. W. Brunner for the use of the theatre.

To those artists who contributed to the success of our show and the willing workers on stage effects, ticket selling, decorations and unloading and the one hundred and one jobs that go to make a successful affair, we tender thanks.

To the general public of Wainwright and district who support us so loyally year after year I cannot do better than pass on the words of our guest speaker, Padre Crippa. He said in part: "It is amazing that after the lapse of twenty years your branch can attract such a crowd and it shows what a splendid spirit must exist in Wainwright."

Again we THANK YOU one and all.

An exciting moment occurred to Garth Hetherington and Eliza Arthur on Saturday last, when they met at a curve on the river hill. Both were in the rut of the road, which was so deep neither could stop quite quick enough to avoid colliding. However, but little damage was done to the vehicles and neither driver was injured.

Renew your stove pipes, clean your chimneys, remove soot and ash from your stove backs, and make sure you are well insured by Joe Welch, insurance agent.

Mr. Robt. Bell was a guest at the United Church manse over the week end, before returning to the city.

Mr. Bob Ireland left the cage at the bank long enough to take a run up to the city for the week end.

Mr. M. Milner, who has been working at Jasper for some time, has now returned to his home here.

Congratulations are due to Miss Mary Huston, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. W. Huston, formerly of Wainwright, who carried off first-class honors in her Toronto conservatory of music exams. last week.

Among townfolk noticed in the city last week were Mrs. G. Glass and her daughter Norine, Miss M. Darrah and Miss L. Mabey.

Mr. Pete Spady, of Gilt Edge, is building an addition to his farm home these days.

Secretary Taylor, of Gilt Edge M.D. informs all interested that he will be in Edmonton on Sat., Nov. 19th and Sat., Nov. 26th, for the purpose of receiving tax payments.

Announcement is made in the advertising columns that the discount on taxes owing to Gilt Edge M.D. will absolutely cease on and after Dec. 15th next.

The annual meeting of the local library association is being held tonight in the Town Hall at 8 p.m.

Word has been received in town of the death of Mr. Wm. Gallinger at the age of 56 years. He was resident here for many years and will be remembered by the old-timers of this district.

R. H. Tory has been busy for the past few days installing a new wind electric plant for George Ross, so the latter is getting quite modernized. The outfit works splendidly, we hear.

Quite a nice number of the local veterans turned out on Sunday morning last for the special Remembrance service preached by Rev. P. Rickard at St. Thomas' (Ang.) church.

According to an advt. on page four this week, no seed grain or fodder will be supplied by the council of Gilt Edge M.D. for the 1939 season, and farmers are advised to save enough grain for seeding their next crop.

Old-timers of this district will regret to learn of the death of Mrs. P. E. Ross, who resided here in 1907 before leaving with her husband for Calgary in 1918. She leaves her husband and two daughters and a son.
